

Seattle's Community Profile

This section presents a profile of Seattle's residents. It is a portrait of the people – their ages, colors, national origins, abilities and income levels. Information in this section describes several key indicators, or important facts and measures, of population and demographic shifts, income trends and racial and ethnic disparities across broad categories. In addition to a portrait of the people, this section also includes a housing inventory and description of neighborhood conditions. The data in this community profile serves to better inform housing, human development, and community and economic development needs and strategies.
